EXPO BOOKS AERIAL CIRCUS

Among the highlights on the amusement program at the California Pacific International Exposition this week-end will be the performances of the "flying Dunkels," shown above. These clever aerialists, the children of C. E. Dunkel, of San Diego, perform the most intricate acrobatic feats with ease. They will give three performances Saturday and Sunday on the Exposition athletic field.

House Survey Shows 8,000 People Here

A survey of houses by the postal department on January 15, 1936, shows a very decided increase in population at Ocean Beach over the previous year. Definite records are not available but it is believed that there is an increase of at least 2,000 people here over a year ago.

Basing the count on 3.5 persons per living unit the population served by the four carriers from our local post office will show approximately 8,000 people living in the Ocean Beach postal area on January 15, and this season of the year our population is the lowest, for in the early spring housing facilities become more crowded and remain so until the end of September when vacation seasons come to a close.

Following is the detailed count for Ocean Beach as given by local postal authorities:

TOUR OF HARBOR AND FERRY

Last Wednesday the first and second graders in Mrs. Karl's room made a tour of the San Diego harbor. They are studying the harbor in their social studies.

First stop was made at Lindbergh field where they saw the airplanes and light signals. From there the group went to Pier No. 1 which is the Municipal pier. Of special interest to the children was the Coast Guard Cutter, Perseus, the sport fishing boat, Patricia, and the Chilean Training ship. From the pier they had a good view of the other piers and shore boat landing.

The fire boat, Bill Kettner, was anchored near the Ferry dock. The children learned first hand about fire fighting on the waterfront, about the hose, speed of boat, and fire fighting equipment.

The climax of the trip was the ride on the Coronado ferry making several round trips to the Coronado side. The life preservers were all out for government inspection so the children were allowed to try them on and help put them away. The children saw almost every kind of boat, water craft and buoys they had studied about including the Star of India.

Cars for the trip were furnished thru the courtesy of Mr. Herz, Mr. Baxter and Mr. and Mrs. Cisco.

ATHLETIC BANNERS

Athletic banners were presented Wednesday morning during opening exercises to team captained by Maurice Watson, Paul Jones, Bonnie Collier and John Howarth. The captains of the winning girls' teams were: Marion Boyd, Myrtle Hess, Lois Titlow and Harriet Littlefield. Boy's sportsmanship banner went to Bobby Peck's team and Betty Lohman's team was awarded the girl's sportsmanship banner.

CLASS VISITS DEPOT

Miss Steddom's first grade children made a trip to the Santa Fe depot last Thursday. The children saw the 12:30 train arrive from Los Angeles. They were taken on the train where they saw the baggage car, a pullman, and coach. Many interesting things were learned about the locomotive from talking to the engineer and fireman.

After visiting the train the children were taken on a short tour of the depot and baggage room.

Parents who furnished transportation were Mrs. Cleveland, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Woods and Mr. Chappelle.

SAFETY PLAY GIVEN

The school safety committee members presented a play to the PTA which emphasized the assumption of responsibility by school children to make their school a safer and happier place in which to live. The part of the president in the Safety meeting was taken by Jack Powers and Shirley Jensen was the secretary; the boy who had been injured was Sonny Woods; the boy who rode another boy on his bicycle was Joe Lohman; the girl who reported a boy was Lenore Batt and the boy who discovered the safeties were good was Virgil Waters. Other mportant parts weer taken by Marie Quist, Donald Sarrie, Betty Banfill, Robert Woods, Robert McCaffrey, Helen Smith and Mercedes Forsberg. After the business meeting the chairman, Luella Brown, presented the group, led by Marion Boyd, who gave a safety key ring play. Each key told its story of how to play and work safely. The meeting closed with saying the school safety pledge.

BANKING BANNER

Enthusiasm has spread very much and competition is running very high in the banking race. Miss Lipp's H-2, L-3 group won the banner this week with 70 per cent of her children banking. Miss Barnes' third graders came in second with 41 per cent; Miss Shea's H-6 and Mrs. Confer's H-2 graders tied with 38 per cent.

A complete orange packing plant in operation can be seen at the California Pacific International Exposition.

Pat O'Rourke Expounds Idea City-County Unit

At an open meeting of the Ocean Beach chamber of commerce Monday evening little business was transacted as the session was called for the special purpose of hearing from P. J. O'Rourke on his proposal to have a new city-county unit of government formed which is to include only the city of San Diego.

O'Rourke has some mighty progressive ideas for San Diego's civic welfare and the one which will do away with duplication of the county control over the city, is one which he is furthering at present, the following petition being filed with the city council Monday, March 2nd:

TO THE HONORABLE MAYOR AND OTHER MEMBERS OF THE COMMON COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF SAN DIEGO:

The undersigned, a citizen and taxpayer of the City of San Diego, respectfully petitions your honorable body to take such steps as may be necessary, under subd. 5 of Section 8¼ of Article XI of the Constitution of California, to amend the present charter of the City of San Diego, so as to provide for the separation of said City from the County of San Diego, and for the formation of said City into a consolidated city and county to be governed by such Charter as amended, and to have combined powers of a City and County as provided in the Constitution of California for consolidated city and county government.

DATED this 2nd day of March, 1936.

P. F. O'ROURKE.

In his talk here, O'Rourke told of the large savings his plan would make for the community. He delivered a strong talk in a forceful manner. His plea is that we now have a duplication of administrative officers and can just as well function under one setup as under the expense of two.

Councilman Al Bennett was also in attendance at this meeting and apparently favored O'Rourke's program.

It was stated there would be a meeting in the council chamber Friday evening at 7:30 to effect an organization to further this consolidation and everyone is requested to attend who might be interested.

In other matters before the local body, A. Dumont advanced the idea of a bulkhead on the ocean front from the Silver Spray bath house to Mission bay channel bridge. While there was no opposition F. B. McElwee stated he was not in favor of forming an assessment district for the same.

A committee was appointed to contact the city council for a life guard here regularly and for more life guards along north shore beaches

CONFIRMATION AT SACRED HEART CHURCH

On Thursday of last week, his Excellency, John J. Cantwell, Catholic bishop of the diocese of Los Angeles and San Diego, administered the Sacrament of Confirmation to a class of fifty-one at the local Sacred Heart church. Assisting the bishop, in addition to the pastor, Rev. P. A. Connolly, were the following: Rev. Thomas McNamarra of La Jolla, Rev. Manuel of Roseville, Rev. James Hulquist of Old Town, Rev. John Cotter and Rev. Matthew Thompson of San Diego, Rev. Owen Hannon of east San Diego and Rev. Joseph McGucken, bishop's secretary.

The altar was tastily decorated with gladioli stocks and sword ferns. An overflowing congregation listened attentively to the bishop's examination of the children and to his fatherly remarks addressed to both children and parents. The local choir was augmented by members from the choirs of St. John's and St. Agnes' parishes under the very able direction of E. A. Thill.

Weapons used by Emperor Haile Selassie's warriors are on display at the San Diego world's fair.

Irish Dinner and Dance Tuesday, March 17

Holy Name men of the Sacred Heart parish are eagerly perfecting a program of Irish festivities to be held at the Woman's club house, St. Patrick's Day, Tuesday, March 17. This promises to be a jolly affair and no one should miss it. A generous Irish dinner will be served from 6 to 8. To aid your digestion the air will be rendered mellifluous with music and song. After eating, if you are too full for words, you may exercise your vocal chords in a program of community singing. Of course, any one attempting sublime operatic effects will be disqualified as well as heavily fined. When the slaughter is over and the tables laid bare, decks will be cleared for action. Then a five piece orchestra will so tickle your toes, that you will want to dance as you never danced before. Incidentally a beautiful eight day clock will be given away as a souvenir. You will want this clock, you will be dying to dance, you will be starved for good things to eat; so, join the merry-makers, tune yourselves up to action, get into the swirl. Remember the date, St. Patrick's Day and the place, the Woman's club house.

Retired Public Utility Official Buys Oliver Property

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Baker of Chicago have bought the Oliver home at 4761 Coronado avenue, where they will reside as soon as they can get possession.

Mrs. Baker will return to Chicago Saturday to settle their affairs there, and we hope she will return soon and bring back with her their two lovely daughters, Helen and Lenore.

Mr. Baker in the meantime intends to busy himself making improvements on his place. During his wife's absence he will make his home with his brother-in-law, Jas. Vogt of 4802 Coronado avenue.

Mr. Baker is also very much interested in astronomy, having given astronomical lectures over the radio in Chicago. He was instrumental in getting The Adler Planetarium for Chicago.

His vocation for the past 30 years has been electrical engineer with the Edison Co. of Chicago.

With the arrival of the Bakers, Ocean Beach gains another good family to add to its rapidly growing population. We welcome them and feel sure they will like our community very much.

SHOW OPENS SATURDAY AT ENCINITAS; CONTINUES 9 DAYS

Flower lovers, and lovers of landscaping in natural surroundings, have a treat in store for them starting Saturday, when the 11th annual National Mid-winter Flower show opens to the public at Encinitas and continues for nine days.

The tent, covering 20,000 square feet of floor space, is a haven of beauty, and the remaining 60,000 square feet of space, on the outside of the tent, is a dreamland of loveliness.

Exhibitors from all parts of Southern California have arranged their exhibits which officials of the flower show say will be the greatest show on record.

James Harvey, manager, stated that gates will open at noon Saturday, and will be open from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. every day following, until March 22.

W.C.T.U. MEETS MARCH 19

The regular meeting of the W.C.T.U. will be held on next Thursday, March 19, at 2 p. m. at the Baptist church.

We would love to have those who gave us such encouragement at our dinner and program, to continue their thbught of us, and our efforts. A welcome for all. A social tea after the program.

Assistant secretary.

Street Lighting Engineer At Forum Tuesday

"The Economy of Abundance" will be discussed by W. D. Stark, street lighting engineer, associated with the city engineer's office, at the social-civic adult forum next Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. which meets in the auditorium of the Ocean Beach elementary school, 4741 Santa Monica avenue, in Ocean Beach.

He will be introduced by John R. Lyons, in charge of the forum, who is under the supervision of Paul Klein and Dr. Charles J. Falk, directors of the adult education department of the city schools.

There are no fees and the public is invited.

This address will be the fourth in a series of addresses to be presented at the Ocean Beach forum which is held every Tuesday night at the elementary school. The informality of the forum which gives each one present an opportunity to ask questions or air his individual views is highly appreciated.

$800 00 FOR NEW FLOOR FOR SKATING RINK

According to building permits granted Monday, Adam F. Ahrens will spend $800 for a new floor at the old dance hall building, 5091 Newport avenue, where he and Harry Hartman expect to open a roller skating rink.

G. O. P. ASSEMBLY JOINS RE-REGISTRATION DRIVE

A drive for re-registration of all voters before March 26, is being undertaken by the County Republican assembly, cooperating with the Republican state central committee, Edward S. Hope, assembly president, announced yesterday.

"All registrations made before January 1, have been cancelled," Hope said, "Every Republican, Democrat, Progressive and other party member must re-register before March 26, to entitle him to vote in the presidential primary May 5."

THE REPUBLICAN ASSEMBLY URGES YOU TO RE-REGISTER BEFORE MARCH 26

DR. FRANK LOWE IS KIWANIS SPEAKER WEDNESDAY

Jake Watson, vice president of Ocean Beach Kiwanis, presided Wednesday during the absence of the president.

Dr. E. O. Thayer was chairman for the day and carried off these honors with distinction. Though "Dad" Thayer is past 80 years of age he turned a few tricks on fellow members that made unsuspecting ones dig up for the kiddies welfare fund.

Dr. Frank Lowe of the Central Christian church of San Diego gave a very fine talk on higher ideals, better government by a more thoro democracy and concluded with saying that truly Christian principles would solve many of our modern public problems.

Milton Lancaster gave a short report on the Tuesday evening meeting in San Diego which several members attended. His report on the talk of Charles R. Crooke, president of the Santa Clara county board of education, on Human Values of Kiwanis, the evolution of our government and support of this institution, was given in a thoro and concise manner.

Messrs. J. D. Conger of the La Salle Extension University and C. T. Reibold of the Southern California Telephone Co., were guests of Allan Mutty.

STREET CARS ON NEW SCHEDULE TO 7:02 P. M.

In the new schedule of street car service to San Diego, inbound, No. 14 car leaves Ocean Beach at 5:29 a. m. then every thirty minutes until the afternoon when there is a three minute change to 3:02 p. m. and then every half hour until 7:02 p. m., then the old schedule is again taken up and next car leaves at 7:44, then every thirty minutes to 10:44 p. m. then hourly to 1:40 a. m.

No. 14 runs direct to San Diego and there is a 15-minute service from Ocean Beach junction, the No. 16 car coming down from La Jolla, during the day is on a half-hour schedule, but 15 minutes later than the No. 14 car.

The first No. 14 outbound car from San Diego's plaza leaves town at 5:06 a. m.

Vote To Be Delayed On Collier Park

According to word from the city attorney's office the vote on transferring part of Collier park to the city school board will be delayed on account of time limit as it is reported 72 days time must be given before the vote is taken on the matter of voting lands out of city parks for other purposes.

Local sponsors of the project had hoped to get this matter on the May 5th ballot, but dilly-dallying at the city hall will make it necessary to have this vote at a special election or postponed until a later date.

Deeding of San Diego high school site to the school board comes under the same regulations and must therefore be held over.

These matters, together with the deeding of tidelands to the navy for a naval reserve armory and on approval of trading pueblo lands to the marine corps for land to be added to Lindbergh field, were all approved by the city council, Tuesday.

$2500 HOME FOR GREEN ST. $9000 RESIDENCE, CHATSWORTH

Arthur Smith, 4526 Green street, has let the contract for a frame residence and garage to cost $2,500.

B. M. Torgerson, per self, 2902 Chatsworth blvd., will build a frame residence and garage at a cost of $9,000.

In addition to these new permits there are more than twenty houses now being built here, P. M. Burrows, local builder, has nine residences under construction.

Japanese Rebels Slay Four Statesmen and Dictatorship Is Rumored—Hagood's Removal Starts a Row—Vandenberg Won't Enter the Ohio Primary.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

© Western Newspaper Union.

MILITARISTS of Japan, led by a group of young army officers who were impatient with the government's policy of economy and restraint in the matter of advances in China and Mongolia, suddenly staged a revolt in Tokyo with the avowed purpose of eliminating liberal statesmen whom they considered obstacles to the restoration of a military dictatorship under imperial rule. Seizing certain government buildings in the capital, they rushed to the homes of the listed statesmen and succeeded in assassinating four—Premier Admiral Keisuke Okada; Admiral Viscount Makoto, former premier and lord keeper of the privy seal; Gen. Jotaro Watanabe, chief of military education, and Koreyiko Takahashi, finance minister. Several others were wounded, and servants of all of them were killed.

Emperor Hirohito

Emperor Hirohito immediately took charge of the situation, called a council of state and made Fumio Goto temporary premier. Martial law was proclaimed in Tokyo and the loyal army forces, largely outnumbering the rebels, surrounded the latter in the buildings they had taken. Meanwhile the second fleet, also loyal, moved up to the mouth of Tokyo bay, its guns dominating the city.

During the first day of the uprising an agreement was reached that the rebel troops should return to their barracks, but this they refused to do. Then the censorship, temporarily raised, was clamped down again. Diplomatic quarters in Shanghai received a report that Gen. Sadao Araki, former minister of war, had established a military dictatorship. He has been the most chauvinistic of all Japan's high army officers.

Political observers in Tokyo believed that the emperor's advisers would urge the right wing elements to be given a chance to form a cabinet, to see whether they would be able to conduct the government.

Even liberal political sources shared this belief, confident that such an experiment would produce a strong public reaction to the left, permitting early restoration of a normal government.

SENATE and house conferees patched up the new farm bill, substitute for the invalidated AAA, both houses accepted the revised measure and it was sent to the White House. Senator Borah argued in vain especially against the so-called "consumers'" amendment which authorizes the "re-establishment, at as rapid a rate as the secretary of agriculture determines to be practicable and in the general public interest, of the ratio between the purchasing power of the net income per person on farms and the income per person not on farms that prevailed during the five-year period August, 1909, to July, 1914."

Speaking of the extraordinary delegation of power to the secretary of agriculture, Senator Borah said: "We are now asked to confer upon him a task which would require omnipotence. It is manifestly on the face of it an absurdity.

"This idea that even by divine power you can go out and equalize the purchasing power of the producer and equalize the purchasing power of the laborer, when above them both is a power which is fixing a rule under which they live, is to me inconceivable."

ON THE ground that the seed loan requirements of farmers can be met from relief funds on hand, President Roosevelt vetoed the $50,000,000 crop production bill passed by congress. In his message he called attention to his budget message urging that congress provide additional taxes if it enacted legislation imposing charges not covered in the budget. He said he expected, last year, that such loans as the seed loan would be tapered off. He realizes they still are necessary but added:

"I am fully convinced that the immediate and actual need to which I have referred can be met during the year 1936 by an expenditure of funds materially less than that proposed in the bill under discussion."

SUMMARY removal of Maj. Gen. Johnson Hagood from his command of the Eighth Corps area because of his critical expressions concerning the WPA and other New Deal activities stirred up a pretty row in Washington. Gen. Malin Craig, chief of staff, signed the order to Hagood, by order of the secretary of war and the President. The Republicans in congress, backed up by Tom Blanton of Texas and some other Democrats, assailed the action vigorously, and Senator Metcalf of Rhode Island introduced a resolution for an inquiry into the incident on behalf of "free speech."

Gen. Hagood

Breaking its "usual rule of silence," the War department made public a letter from General Craig to Secretary Dern, declaring Hagood's record was "marked by repeated examples of lack of self-control, irresponsible and intemperate statements."

Hagood had told a house subcommittee that it was "almost impossible" to get WPA's "stage money" for "anything worthwhile." These remarks, said Craig, "can only be characterized as flippant in tone and entirely uncalled for and designed to bring ridicule and contempt upon civil agencies of the government."

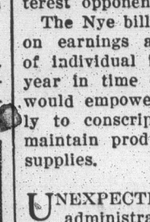

Accusing him of "thinly veiled" opposition and "contempt" toward War department policies in the past, Craig pointed out as "contemptuous" Hagood's references to CCC activities as "hobbies," "collecting postage stamps" and "taking an interest in butterflies."

Seeking a quick settlement of the controversy, Senator Byrnes, Democrat, and Representative McSwain, Democratic chairman of the house military affairs committee, both of whom hail from Hagood's home state of South Carolina, arranged a conference with Secretary of War Dern. This had no result.

SENATOR VANDENBERG of Michigan has formally declined to enter the Ohio Presidential primary, but does not bar himself from consideration for the Republican nomination. Writing to the Republican state committee of Ohio, in reply to an inquiry as to whether he would run, Vandenberg asserted his "sole interest" in the Republican convention was that it should make "the wisest possible decisions respecting both party leadership and party policies."

To conform to Ohio law, the Borah forces have found the required "second choice." This is Frank E. Gannett of Rochester, N. Y., publisher of a chain of newspapers, who has agreed to fight alongside the Idaho senator for Ohio's 52 delegates, to receive the votes of those pledged to Borah should the nomination of the latter be blocked in the convention. Mr. Gannett has expressed the belief that Borah is the one member of the party "most likely to recover the upstate New York vote," and he also holds the view that the Idahoan would be the strongest candidate in the agricultural states.

WHILE waiting for instructions as to what to do in the matter of taxation, the members of the house—and many others—directed their attention to the investigation of the activities of the Townsend pension plan promoters. Speaker Byrns appointed on the probing committee of eight two avowed Townsendites—John H. Tolan, Democrat, and Samuel L. Collins, Republican, both from California. The chairman is J. Jasper Bell of Missouri, Democrat, author of the resolution for the investigation. It was understood that Mr. Bell had already gathered a mass of information to substantiate the charge that the Townsend plan has become a huge racket. The leaders of both parties in congress have been getting rather nervous over the growth of the Townsend movement and are glad to see it attacked; but some impartial observers call attention to the fact that the way the committee is going after it smacks of unconstitutional abridgement of the right to petition.

J. Jasper Bell

It was expected that one of the first questions to be considered by the committee would be the salaries received by Dr. Francis E. Townsend, author of the scheme, and R. E. Clements, former California real estate operator, co-founder and general manager.

SENATOR NYE of North Dakota is determined that the war profits bill devised by his munitions committee shall be brought up for consideration at this session. Indeed he more than threatens a filibuster to bring this about, if necessary, to get the measure out of the hands of a finance subcommittee which is headed by Tom Connally of Texas, one of Nye's bitterest opponents.

The Nye bill provides for stiff taxes on earnings and virtual confiscation of individual income above $10,000 a year in time of war. In addition it would empower the President virtually to conscript industrial leaders to maintain production of essential war supplies.

UNEXPECTEDLY revolting against administration direction, the house voted down, 172 to 164, the bill to exempt from state and local taxation bank stocks held by the Reconstruction corporation. A similar measure passed the senate 38 to 28 the day before. The defeat was surprising because the measure had been unanimously supported by Republicans and Democrats on the house banking committee. Democratic leaders expressed the belief that the measure would not be revived.

The legislation was written after the Supreme court held in a Maryland bank case that the stocks held by RFC were subject to taxation.

GOV. EUGENE TALMADGE is virtually financial dictator of Georgia, because the general assembly did not enact an appropriation bill, but he is having his troubles finding funds to carry on. He declared there was a "plan hatched in Washington" to hamper him, and ousted State Treasurer George Hamilton and Controller General William Harrison for refusal to honor treasury warrants. Hamilton removed all the money from the treasury vault to a bank. Three state departments provided funds for temporary operation of fiscal affairs.

Then depository banks, the United States post office and the state's attorney general took a hand. Mail addressed to the suspended officers was impounded, cutting off the flow of tax remittances; all but one of the depository banks refused to honor state checks pending a court decision on the legal status of de facto officials; and Attorney General M. J. Yeomans, once cited by Talmadge as an authority for his actions, declared his position had been misinterpreted.

DEATH took from the scene two men prominent in national life—Albert Cabell Ritchie, governor of Maryland for four terms, and Henry Latrobe Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy and distant cousin of the President. Mr. Ritchie was a leader among conservative Democrats, from the start a determined foe of national prohibition, and in 1932 a candidate for the Presidential nomination by his party. Though beaten out by F. D. Roosevelt, he had the satisfaction of seeing his repeal plank put into the Democratic platform. Of late he had been an outspoken critic of the New Deal policies, for he was a champion of state rights.

A. C. Ritchie

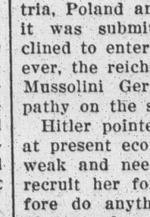

Henry L. Roosevelt was the fifth member of his family to serve as assistant secretary of the navy, and in recent months he had played an increasingly important part in the affairs of the department, acting as secretary during the illness of Secretary Swanson. He was a student in the naval academy class of 1909, but left before graduation to become a second lieutenant in the marine corps in which service he rose to the rank of colonel.

POLITICAL conditions in Puerto Rico, notoriously unsatisfactory, may be rectified as a result of the assassination in San Juan of E. Francis Riggs, chief of the insular police, and a district police chief. Riggs, a former United States army colonel, was shot by two Nationalists; two hours later District Police Chief Francisco Velez N. Ortiz attempted to put down a Nationalist riot at Utuado and was killed.

Gov. Blanton Winship announced that a full inquiry into the incidents would be energetically pushed. Deploring the slaying of Riggs as "dastardly," he asserted a revival of capital punishment and a ban against carrying of firearms, being urged upon the legislature, would prevent such crimes.

The assassins of Riggs were caught and admitted the killing, saying it was in revenge for the Rio Pedras "massacre" in which police killed four Nationalists last November. While being questioned, the murderers, the police said, reached for guns and were shot to death.

DEVELOPMENTS in Washington lead to the belief that the Copeland ship subsidy bill has been abandoned. Word came from the White House that the President, although he initiated the principles of the measure, would not press for its passage; and Senator Royal S. Copeland, whose commerce committee approved the bill which was a part of the administration program, is so irritated that he may drop it. Senator Guffey of Pennsylvania has prepared a rival measure, not yet introduced.

Sen. Copeland

Shipping interests have given warning that new construction for foreign trade will continue to be paralyzed by uncertainty and lead to additional insistence by the Navy department on the building of its own auxiliaries.

CAPT. ANTHONY EDEN, British foreign minister, stood up in the house of commons and warned the world that recurrence of the World war was imminent and in his opinion could not be averted except by a system of collective security "embracing all nations in an authority which is unchallenged and unchallengeable."

Eden impressed upon members of the parliament the difference between a policy of collective security and one of encirclement, such as the "ring of steel" which Germany complains is being forged about her by France. "The British government will have no lot or part in encirclement," Eden said.

MUSSOLINI had an ambitious plan for a five-power agreement that would embrace Italy, Germany, Austria, Poland and Hungary. But when it was submitted to Hitler he declined to enter the combination. However, the reichsfuehrer, it is said, told Mussolini Germany looks with sympathy on the stand Italy has taken.

Hitler pointed out that Germany is at present economically and militarily weak and needs a breathing spell to recruit her forces. He cannot therefore do anything at present that is likely to draw the hostility of France and Great Britain, but he will maintain an attitude of benevolent neutrality toward Italy.

Mrs. Dorothea Livermore is pictured here with her son Jesse Livermore Jr., who will probably be the chief witness against his mother when she appears for her preliminary hearing on March 14th. Mrs. Livermore is accused of shooting her son in a quarrel over liquor, several months ago. Attorney W. T. Butcher who will represent Mrs. Livermore (center).

WADES TO GET A DRINK OF WATER

You'd think that the torrential rains which poured down on Northern California without cease for two weeks would take care of the water question, but Billy Reynolds, on his family's ranch near French Camp, still finds it necessary to go to the well for water. Families were warned to distill or boil water because of typhus danger.

Gets Planetarium

San Jose.—Dr. H. P. Lewis, Imperator of the Roiscrucian Order, announces a planetarium and scientific research laboratory to cost $30,000 exclusive of equipment, will be constructed at Rosicrucian Park here. The building will be completed by July 1 and formally accepted by the order at the annual convention July 12 to 18.

Governor Seeking Federal Funds

Sacramento.—Charges that the Federal government failed to live up to its relief bargain with California were made recently by Governor Merriam, who asked Federal Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins to provide Federal funds to carry on the work.

Wins High Post

Sam Partridge, 21, patrol leader of Troop 4 at Grass Valley, was recently elected grand commander of the Knights of Dunamis, a national organization composed of Eagle Scouts. The high honor was reached by Partridge after ten years of scout activities. He is the son of Mrs. Jennie Partridge of Grass Valley.

Mission Work Speeded

Santa Maria.—Work has commenced on rebuilding the walls of the southern half of old La Purisima Mission, between Santa Maria and Lompoc. The first half or northern end of the main structure has been completely rebuilt and roofed and the floor and roof tiling is now being laid. The southern section walls are now rising, and the work is expected to be completed this summer, when the last unrestored or unpreserved mission in the state will again present its original appearance.

First C. C. C. School

Sequoia National Park.—An "emergency school," established at Salt Creek C. C. C. camp by the Tulare County educational department, in cooperation with Educational Adviser Shippy of the Salt Creek and Potwisha camps, is believed the first of its kind. The school is maintained by the county. Mrs. Julia Pierce acts as instructor, maintaining school five evenings each week. Young men who have not completed elementary schooling are continuing their studies.

More Jobs

Bakersfield.—Two hundred men are at work on the new $150,000 airplane hangar at Kern County Airport, it was announced by Cecil Meadows, superintendent. The work, being done as one of the first W. P. A. airport grants in the state, is approximately 10 per cent complete. When finished, the hangar will be one of the most modern pieces of airport equipment in the state, officials say. Improvements also are under way at all Kern County fields, money being apportioned for the work by the Works Progress Administration.

Sacramento. — Additional proposed sites for a $6,000,000 Southern California junior prison are being inspected by a commission headed by A. E. Stockburger, director of the State Department of Finance.

Municipal Courts Gain

Los Angeles.—Business of the municipal courts for the last fiscal year increased from 343,169 cases to 400,269, by far the largest number these courts ever have handled, according to a report made by Municipal Judge Scheinman as he turned over the gavel as presiding judge to Judge A. A. Scott.

De Molay Conclave

San Francisco. — The thirteenth annual conclave of the Associated Northern California Chapters of the Order of De Molay, organization of youths formed under Masonic auspices, will be held here May 15, 16 and 17.

Youth Aided

Los Angeles.—The Federal government's National Youth Administration program to aid needy young persons between 16 and 25 years of age, mostly those in families on public relief, has cost in Los Angeles County approximately $210,000 to date and has aided approximately 9,000 persons. Mrs. Earl Treadwell of San Francisco, N. Y. A. head in California, disclosed the figures, showing about $15,000 aid to approximately 3,000 high school pupils in 100 high schools in this county. The program in colleges has aided approximately 3,500 students in therity-one colleges at a cost of about $40,000. Three projects for youth outside high schools and colleges are aiding about 2,500 and on this $153,000 is being spent. Extension of the aid is in progress. Those aided get $6 to $25 a month for part-time work.

Protest Shift of Rangers

Sacramento. — Protests against a series of transfers of state forest rangers have been received by State Forester M. B. Pratt. Effective late this month, A. A. Wilkie, ranger in Sonoma County, will be transferred to Humboldt County; W. J. Hufford of Shasta County will be assigned to Sonoma; Lester Gum of Tehama County will supervise work in Shasta County, and P. J. Hall will be placed in charge of the suppression crews in Tehama County. The shifts came about as the result of the resignation of P. J. Hall, Humboldt County ranger. Pratt said that the shifts in rangers was ordered for the good of the forestry service. He added: "When a ranger has been in a county for several years, the citizens there naturally gain confidence in him and think that no one else can take his place. We receive similar protests whenever a transfer is made. All of the men are experienced men with good records, and I am certain that the citizens will find them entirely satisfactory in their work."

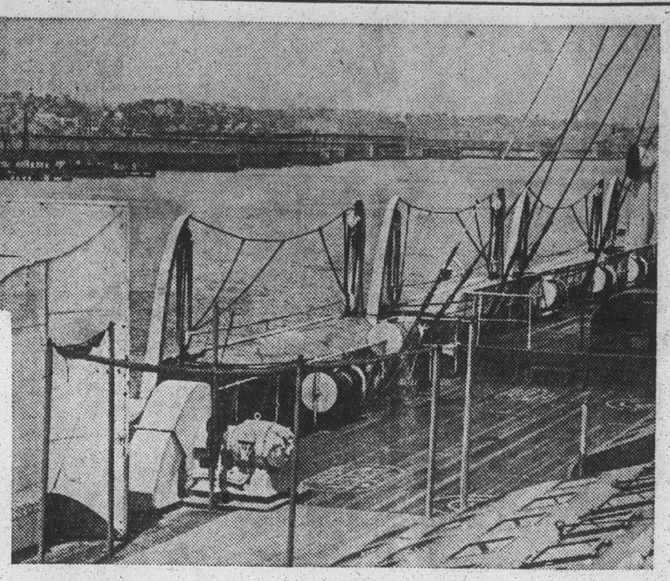

Adobes Listed

Berkeley.—All adobe buildings still existing in the state are being listed by Prof. G. W. Hendry of the University of California. By planting the seeds found in them he is able to determine the plants that grew in each region at the time of their construction.

Mistletoe Ban

Tulare.—City Manager Pennebaker recently ordered all mistletoe cleared from Tulare trees. He pointed out that the plant not only undermines the trees but eventually kills them.

First Free Port in United States Established

STAPLETON, on Staten Island, has been established as the first free port ever opened in the United States. The zone area is restricted to the five piers shown here and adjacent territory of about 78 acres. Authority to establish the free port was granted to New York city. Articles manufactured in a foreign country may be landed there without payment of duties and shipped thence to any other foreign country. Duty is collectable only when the imports are shipped to other parts of the United States.

BEDTIME STORY FOR CHILDREN

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

LIGHTFOOT CATCHES A GLIMPSE OF THE STRANGER

LIGHTFOOT the Deer was unhappy. It was a strange unhappiness, an unhappiness such as he had never known before. You see, he had discovered that there was a stranger in the Green Forest, a stranger of his own kind, another deer. He knew it by dainty footprints in the mud along the Laughing Brook and on the edge of the pond of Paddy the Beaver. He knew it by other signs which he ran across every now and then. But search as he would, he was unable to find the newcomer. He had searched everywhere, but always he was just too late. The stranger had gone.

Now there was no anger in Lightfoot's desire to find the stranger. Instead, there was a great longing. For the first time in his life Lightfoot felt lonely. So he hunted and hunted and was unhappy. He lost appetite. He slept little. He roamed about uneasily, looking, listening, testing every Merry Little Breeze, but all in vain.

Then, one never-to-be-forgotten night, as he drank at the Laughing Brook, a strange feeling swept over him. It was the feeling of being watched. Lightfoot lifted his beautiful head and a slight movement caught his quick eyes and drew them to a thicket not far away. The silvery light of gentle Mistress Moon fell full on that thicket and thrust out from it was the most beautiful head in all the Great World. At least that is the way it seemed to Lightfoot, though the truth is, it was not as beautiful as his own, for it was uncrowned by antlers. For a long minute Lightfoot stood gazing. A pair of wonderful, great, soft eyes gazed back at him. Then that beautiful head disappeared.

With a mighty bound Lightfoot cleared the Laughing Brook and rushed over to the thicket in which that beautiful head had disappeared. He plunged in, but there was no one there. Frantically he searched. But that thicket was empty. Then he stood still and listened. Not a sound reached him. It was as still as if there were no other living things in all the Green Forest. The beautiful stranger had slipped away as silently as a shadow.

All the rest of that night Lightfoot searched through the Green Forest, but his search was in vain. The longing to find that beautiful stranger had become so great that he fairly ached with it. It seemed to him that until he found her he could know no happiness.

Through A WOMAN'S EYES

by JEAN NEWTON

SOMETHING ON GRATITUDE

"DEAR Jean Newton: I think one of the lowest qualities of which the human race is capable is ingratitude. And yet the people who in other ways are not low are guilty of it. I see so much around me, people failing to appreciate favors and efforts on the part of others which they themselves would be none too ready to render someone else. It seems there are a good many people with two codes, two rules of measurement. One is for what they should do for others—and frequently it is a very small rule of measurement. The other is for what they may expect from others. And there they take a good deal for granted, frequently accepting everything casually and without gratitude. I think the subject is worth a few words from you."

Gratitude—it is an old subject, and wiser minds than mine have spoken on it. When writing the above our reader friend must have been laboring under the reaction from a bitter experience. For it would be a sad world if ingratitude were indeed so common a quality. For my part, I have not found it so; my small efforts for others have always been appreciated beyond their deserts. Yet we know that here and there in this large community that we call the world there is the type of person who is casual in what he accepts from others and thoughtless when it comes to appreciation.

I have come across a recent utterance on the subject by a well-known minister, who said from the pulpit that "the emotion of gratitude is the tenderest of human feelings; it may be ranked with love, sympathy, benevolence." To me that is sentimentalizing the matter. It makes gratitude an original quality, reflecting credit on the one who feels it. I feel rather with our reader that in all decency gratitude should be involuntary, a natural reaction to kindness on the part of others—and that not to feel it in such cases is indeed base. However, our reader should remember—and it may help to avoid the canker of bitterness—that people are not all alike in manifesting their emotions, that the lack of immediate expression does not necessarily denote a lack of appreciation.

The Word "Busses"

The word is a shortened form of "omnibus," the plural of which is "omnibuses." When the final syllable is used alone the tendency is to double the "s" to preserve the short sound of the "u." Webster's New International Dictionary allows both plurals, preferring the doubled "s."

TRY THIS TRICK

By PONJAY HARRAH

Copyright by Public Ledger, Inc.

THE RING FROM THE STRING

THREAD a ring on a double loop of string and place the ends of the loop over a spectator's forefinger. The trick is to remove the ring without taking the loop from the fingers.

To accomplish this, take hold of the string at the left of the ring and place it over the forefinger on the right. This forms a new loop, which you thrust below the one already there.

Then slide the original loop off the person's finger. The ring will drop from the string. Yet at no time has the string actually left the person's fingers.

Perform this trick rapidly; after a little practice the moves will blend. The ring will seem to drop off in most uncanny fashion.

Eve's Epigrams

THINK

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

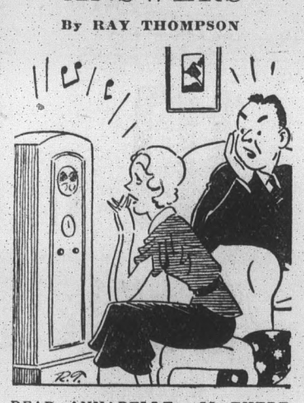

The strong
May lead, but not for long,
Though strength may conquer for a time,
And yet
The victors I have met
Used heads as well as hands to climb.
The wise
Watch both the trail and skies,
Observe the sun, select a star—
Yes, they
Who wisely chose the way
The final victors always are.

Make sure
The truth that will endure
Is your equipment on the quest;
The trail
Too short may often fail,
The longer road may be the best.
Mere strength
Will lose the lead at length,
Stand baffled by some sudden brink,
While on
And up some man has gone,
Some man who took the time to think.

Perfectability

Perfectability exists only in the imagination of imperfect man.

Vice President Has His Own Flag

VICE PRESIDENT GARNER is here seen with his own special flag, the first ever made for a Vice President of the United States. In design it is identical with the President's flag, the only differences being that the President's seal is on a blue field and that of the Vice President on a white field; and the President's stars are white while those of the Vice President are blue.

Uncommon Sense By John Blake

©, Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

Man has attained an ascendency on this earth because he reasons.

Use Your Reason

Of all the creatures on earth he alone is able to think consecutively.

I admit that many of his tribe reason a very little.

But, unless they are morons, they can use their reasoning faculty, and if they don't, they alone are to blame.

If you do not make use of your reasoning power, you have no one but yourself to answer for it.

In spite of the Declaration of Independence, I submit that all human beings are not born equal.

But they all have an equal chance to live and to learn and to think out their own problems.

Use that mind of yours.

Keep it open. Keep it busy. Keep it active.

Take nothing for granted.

There is an old proverb to the effect that a man has two eyes and two ears, but only one tongue for a definite purpose.

Begin by learning to use your own language clearly and effectively.

There is nothing that will help you more on your way up the ladder than the ability to use words well and clearly.

Cultivate as far as it is possible the acquaintance of men and women who think deeply and speak well.

Read as much and as widely as it is possible.

All the world's wisdom up to this time can be found in books.

You need not learn alone from your own experience.

The experience of others is yours to employ whenever you are willing to take the trouble.

Wrestle with your own problems before you apply for help from others.

Make the acquaintance, and if possible gain the regard of intelligent busy people, who have mastered their own problems, and are usually willing to be of help to others.

There is so much to be gained from life that it is a shame to neglect it.

You may not leave the record of your achievement on the sands of time.

But you will at least get what there is to be got out of this life, and that is a great deal.

It is natural said a great American orator "to indulge in the illusions of hope."

Hope Isn't Enough

"Illusions" was the right word.

Hope always is an illusion. Through all time it has functioned as does the will-o-the-wisp, that little dab of ignited marsh gas which you sometimes see moving over bogs if you go out in the night in the summer time.

The man who indulges in the illusions of hope will never be rich, or important, or even moderately successful.

He gambles with his life as a professional gambler plays his game, with the difference that the professional gambler knows he is going to win—for he operates an apparatus which can't lose, while the illusion holder is lucky if he ever wins at all.

It stands to reason that if you know your own business and practice it that you will have more chance of success than if you try too much some other fellow's game.

Yet there are thousands, probably millions of people in this country who imagine that they can by using some kind of a "system" get rich quickly and continue to keep the money rolling in.

The psychology of such people is curious.

Having no knowledge whatever of the stock market, they put their savings into it without consulting intelligent men in Wall Street, lose it, repine for a little while, and then when they get a little more money through hard work go through the same process again, and once more are stripped of all they have.

Back your hope with knowledge and experience and you stand a reasonable chance of succeeding in the enterprise in which you have embarked.

Back it on tips, or your own "hunch" that experience is not necesary to enable you successfully to play some other man's game, and you will soon be going to your friends for help which you ought not to be given and which in all probability you will not be given.

In gambling houses, in the brokers' rooms where tickers count out the hours, you will find dozens of forlorn and poor but always hopeful men—and sometimes women.

What they live on I don't know. But it cannot be anything substantial for they are a sad and disconsolate set of people.

Why should anybody think that a game that thousands of people have played unsuccessfully can be beaten by a lucky guess or two?

Why should they think that luck will go over the heads of many deserving but unfortunate people and single out the shoestring gambler for its capital prizes?

Bring Woodlands or Sea to the Reach of Flat-Dwellers

The vast ultra-modern flats of Austria and Germany usually have bare, windowless sides which might be used for commercial posters. But an artist has altered all that, says Tit-Bits Magazine. He painted scenic designs on the side of one, and so enraptured were the people that he soon obtained other commissions.

The craze caught on, and now dozens of houses have been decorated with ships, birds, vigorous figures in action, and all kinds of woodland scenes.

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches; or the pains of rheumatism, neuritis or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it — in comparison with Genuine Bayer Aspirin.

We say this because, before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin, most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach; or, often, for the heart. And the discovery of Bayer Aspirin largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken Bayer Aspirin year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: Genuine Bayer Aspirin is rated among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains . . . and safe for the average person to take regularly.

You can get real Bayer Aspirin at any drug store — simply by never asking for it by the name "aspirin" alone, but always saying BAYER ASPIRIN when you buy.

TO HILLTOP GIRLS WHO SMOKE

(The San Diego Russ)

There is one question that has been long-debated in social, medical and educational circles.....should girls smoke?

In days not too far past a woman was branded as "wicked" if she indulged in this habit. Now-a-days we have grown more broad-minded and realize that it has nothing to do with a girls' morals if she chooses to hold a burning, tobacco-filled piece of paper in her hand and take occasional puffs from it.

We do know, however, that it is bad for her health and that it should be done only in privacy. Smoking on the streets for girls is still to be frowned upon even though some large cigarettee companies hire women to do this to popularize the custom for women.

If a girl, knowing that it is bad for her health, chooses to smoke in privacy, and if her parents allow her to, we feel it is none of our business. BUT it IS our business when two HILLTOP GIRLS walk nonchalantly down the sidewalk to the street car tracks with a CIGARETTE in their hands and stand there calmly SMOKING while waiting for a street car! In all our life we have seen nothing so astonishingly regrettable as this sight.

It seems to us that those two girls were extremely thoughtless. Many cars and street cars were passing while passengers, some of them perhaps, out-of-town visitors, stared at those two smoking.

They evidently do not respect our school's reputation if they will sacrifice people's good opinion of our Hilltop for a moment's doubtful pleasure. To them we appeal—

DO NOT SMUDGE OUR SCHOOL'S REPUTATION WITH TOBACCO SMOKE!

The month of March arrived with her usual majestic spring promises; the basking sun's rays are already performing miracles, in California. Old Man Winter has been a bad actor in his cruel and tyranical power on the Eastern throne. Such reports are almost unbelievable to the Californian who is thriving under semi-tropical gladness. March always has lots in store for all, especially the estronomer. March is taken from the Roman god of war, Mars and comes in for its share of celestial interest. Nearly all the planets are crowded over into the morning sky. Venus, Jupiter, Mercury, Neptune and Saturn. Mars and Uranus are the only planets remaining on the evening side of the sun. The student always looks upon the month of March for many interesting celestial happennings.

We stand today on the threshold of the greatest of all earth's testing times, and the Lenten season should gain wide interest and observance. While there is plenty of hunger and distress in our midst, there is also a great opportunity before the living masses to still try and satisfy other hungry needs different from the physical! Happily, the Lenten period is a contemplated privilege, looked upon and forward to with delightful anticipation. There is, no doubt, personal benefit gained. Lenten leads up to the culmination of a great event, Easter Sunday .Pre-Easter preparation is more a duty than one realizes. Many avail themselves with the privilege of a course of reading fitted for the occasion, and find the public library of value to them. Generally, it is a seasoni for "taking inventory" of self! No better time could be taken for getting ready for Easter Sunday, April 12th.

NEUTRALITY ACT BECOMES LAW

United States of America has set a crowning example for world peace, the most honorable step and perhaps the most likely to be revered by nations, by the passage of the Neutrality Act; now let the dignitaries at Geneva and other places take notice!

By this very important step taken restraint of trade with all belligerant powers will come under Federal conduct. Nothing but peace-time trade will suffice hereafter. This sweeping action should gain support by every nation and have its influence in behalf of bringing peace. Its influence will certainly loan coordinating power toward "leavening the lump," the peace lump.

The law carries absolute mandatory embargo on arms, ammuninition and all implements of war, as well as loans or credit extension to war nations, under severest fine. The war spirit, at large, will be considered as an unpeaceable nature and war tragedy a dangerous situation to face. Neutrality is given as the only "halfway house" on the road to world peace. It is a strong peace factor, and is about time nations were beginning to recognize its good. However, this alone is still too weak a vehicle to bear the burden of implements necessary to make it a crowning success in all its victorious form.

When nations of the world come out with the same emphatic gesture, full and complete, the abiding principle will have been fixed for bringing world peace.

"Uncle Sam" has paid dearly for the war lessons learned in the more recent world conflicts. That is why he proposes to keep out of the "war mess", by minding his own business. This does not mean there will be any lack of preparation for any future eventualities that may be thrust upon him, because every nation realizies the importance of such a move, however expensive.

Whatever is essential, is an honest and safe neutrality. Under this principle, there would be no more war. The last great war was fought to make the world safe for democracy and also to end war! America worked itself into a frenzy of patriotism on that issue, and mothers who declared they "did not raise boys to be soldiers" were thought to be sadly lacking in patriotic devotion. Today, we as a nation, have had both a new vision of peace and an economic revelation. It has been a vision of safe living under an All-wise protection plan.

Ocean Beach post No. 433, the American Legion, will hold a ham prize card party at their hall, 1957 Abbott St., Ocean Beach, Thursday evening, March 19, co-operating with the auxiliary unit.

The usual custom is to assign a post and auxiliary member to head the arrangement committee, and this month Mrs. Logan E. Ruggles, post member, will act for the Legion and Mrs. Minnie Walther, will serve for the auxiliary. They announce that a 10 pound ham will be awarded to the winner in the door prize contest and that handsome prizes are to be awarded to the winners in bridge, 500 and acey ducey. The latter "old navy" game will be played by the "champs" during the evening.

A feature of the parties that no admission is charged and Legionaires, auxiliary members and friends are cordially invited to attend these fine affairs which have been greatly enjoyed by many Beachites during the past months.

On Thursday, April 2, the post will hold open house for members and friends and the ritual team of Kenneth L. Blanchard post No. 255, National City, will initiate new members. Members are advised to bring their eligible post members to that meeting for the initiation. The post has secured its 1936 membership quota, and now is going after a state citation being awarded to posts that maintain a 10 year average or life of post membership.

PTA REPORTS MANY ACCIDENTS IN HOME

Ocean Beach PTA heard Miss Christian Nevin, supervisor of school nurses speak Wednesday afternoon on safety precaution. "Accidents in the homes call out the ambulance as often as street traffic accidents" said Miss Nevin. Also, "water," taken internally, is a natural dilution for most poisons, as it weakens the poison solution and should be given before antidotes. Egg white should be given instantly, unbeaten, in milk, for acid poisoning."

The first aid classes, sponsored by the PTA, led by Dr. J. W. McCauslan, are being well attended on Wednesday evenings in the school auditorium and will be continued for several weeks yet. Anyone interested may enroll.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE NEWSPAPER EXHIBIT OPEN AT FAIR

San Diego, March 10.—The building of The Christian Science Monitor, an international daily newspaper published at Boston, Massachusetts, was thrown open to the public with the resumption of the California Pacific International Exposition on February 12, and will be open from noon to 8 p. m. until May 1. The beautiful exhibit, which is located near the House of Pacific Relations attracted many people last year.

The main exhibit room displays authorized Christian Science literature, with special emphasis on the Monitor. In one wing of the building there is a graphic display of the scope of the paper. An upstairs reading room is provided where visitors may rest and study. The Bible, the writings of Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, and all the literature and publications of The Christian Science Publishing society are available without charge.

Several informal talks on Christian Science were given at the position last season. Similar programs are being arranged for this year. The first of these talks in the current season will be delivered at the Palace of Entertainment at 4 p. m. on Sunday, March 15, by Albert E. Lombard, of Los Angeles Christian Science Committee on Publication for Southern California. These programs are open to the public and no tickets are required.

Interesting History Of California Counties

Believing that the thousands of tourists who annually motor over the state's great highway system would like to know how the counties they visit came by their names, Director of Public Works Earl Lee Kelly, at the request of Governor Frank F. Merriam, has had prepared from state records a series of brief stories of the origin and meaning of the names of the counties of California including a few salient facts about each county.

Sonoma County—Created February 18, 1850. One of the original twenty-seven counties. "Sonoma" is an Indian word meaning "valley of the moon", because of the resemblance of this valley to the shape of that orb. In 1824, when Padre Jose Actimira baptized the chief of the Cho-cuy-en Indians, he gave him the baptismal name of Sonoma and from this source the county derived its name.

In 1812, a band of Russians landed on the coast of Sonoma and with permission from Spain, established a colony at the port of Bodega for the purpose of maintaining fisheries and hunting for furs. As early as 1815 they had ranchos in the interior, purchased cattle from the Spaniards and devoted themselves to the raising of stock and the production of wheat. During the revolutionary troubles in Mexico they contended they had become the actual owners of the territory they occupied and claimed practically all the country north of San Francisco bay. A fort was erected which was called Stawanski, but which the Mexicans designated as the fort of the Russians. The Americans corrupted the name to Fort Ross. Over this the Russian flag was raised and a military governor was appointed by the Czar. This establishment was maintained until 1840, when the Russian sold to John A. Sutter, who had, in August of 1839, established his fort and settlement at Sacramento. Historic Fort Ross has been restored by the Native Sons. A few years after the Russians landed, Sonoma county witnessed the founding of Mission San Francisco de Solano in 1823, the twenty-first and last mission of Father Junipero Serra's chain of California missions. Spanish settlers began colonizing Sonoma in 1835 and year after year the county developed its now famous reputation as one of the greatest agricultural districts in the world.

On June 14, 1846 Ezekial Merritt and a party of thirty-three raised the Bear flag of California at what now is the mission town of Sonoma.

For fifty years, the late Luther Burbank, noted horticulturist, made Sonoma his home and in Santa Rosa and Sebastopol carried on his horticultural wizardry. He found there the rich soil which has made Sonoma outstanding in the production of fruit and farm crops.

Sonoma is famed for its Gravenstein apples and its prunes, its two products, is first in the sale of lading crops, ranks among the highest of California counties in farm products, is first in the sale of poultry and eggs and third in the value of domestic animals and bees. Petaluma is known as the "Egg Basket of the world" and has an estimated 12,000,000 chickens.

The county is in the heart of the Redwood Empire and its Russian river resort, widely known springs, its geysers of Cloverdale, the Sonoma Petrified forest, Glen Ellen, home of the late Jack London, and sea-side vacation spots have made it widely known. Hunting and fishing are prominent attractions. -Santa Rosa is the county seat and a prosperous California city. Cloverdale, Cotati, Geyserville, Guerneville, Healdsburg, Monte Rio, Petaluma, Sebastopol and Sonoma are names konw throughout the country. Population: 66,222. Area: 1582 sq. miles.

Stanislaus County—Created April 1, 1854. Chief Estanislao, of a powerful tribe of Indians living on what now is known as the Stanislaus river, but by the Indians called the La-Kish-um-na, was educated at the Mission San Jose. He became a renegade and incited his tribe against the Spaniards, but was defeated in 1826 in a fierce battle on this river, which afterwards was called Stanislaus for the defeated Indian chief. It is from this river that the county derived its name.

Primarily an agricultural county, Stanislaus is one of the wealthiest in the state. Its rich, sandy soil gives exceptional productivity to farm and orchard crops. Its water resources are important. The San Joaquin river crosses the county from south to north, the Stanislaus forms the northern boundary, the Tuolumne flows through the middle and the Merced river is the southern watershed. The irrigation districts are known to engineers the world over. The La Grange dam on the Tuolumne, costing $550,000; the Goodwin dam on the Stanislaus, costing $350,000, and the Don Pedro and Melones dams impound a tremendous water reserve which is released for irrigation purposes.

Stanislaus is one of the leading counties in the United States in number of dairy farms and value of dairy products. Creameries of national reputation are located here. Approximately 62,000 acres are devoted to alfalfa. The county has about 2,000,000 bearing fruit trees. Grain and forage are important crops. Cantaloupes, watermelons and like crops run in annual value from $2,500,000 to almost $3,000,000. Beans and juice grapes bring in about $1,800,000 each annually. Poultry and eggs return a yearly income of approximately $1,500,000.

Modesto is one of the most prosperous cities in the State. The Turlock, Modesto, Waterford, Oakdale, Patterson, Newman and West Stanislaus irrigation districts attract international attention and irrigate approximately 250,000 acres.

Knights Ferry and La Grange are historic mining towns and Modesto is not far from Yosemite Valley. Ceres, Newman, Oakdale, Patterson, Riverbank and Turlock, the latter famous for its melons, reflect the prosperity of Stanislaus. Population: 56,641. Area: 1450 square miles.

POULTRY HELPS.

By E. E. Steele.

European fowl pest is a very acute, infectious disease of chickens, turkeys, geese, blackbirds, sparrows, owls and hawks.

The infective agent is present in the blood and various tissues of the bird.

The disease is extremely infectious with high mortality. The infected fowl loses its appetite, has an irregular walk, and becomes very droopy, with feathers ruffled, the comb and wattles swell and turn dark.

A sticky exudate may pack the eyelids together, clog the nasal passages and obstruct the windpipe causing labored breathing and pereodical shaking of the head to dislodge this mucous secretion from the throat and nostrils.

The bird as a rule lives from 2 to 7 days but in acute form birds may seem in good condition in the evening and be found dead under the roost in the morning.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

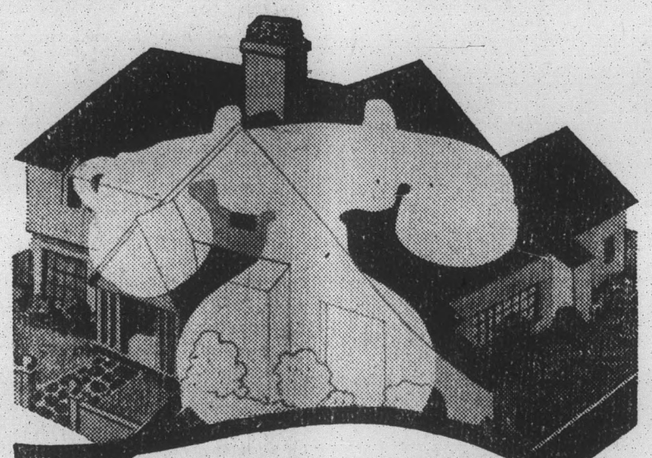

"Substance" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon on Sunday in all branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass. The Golden Text is from the Proverbs: "Honour the Lord with thy substance, and with the firstfruits of all thine increase."

One of the Bible citations in the Lesson-Sermon contains these verses about Jesus, from Luke: "And he put forth a parable to those which were bidden, when he marked how they chose out the chief rooms; saying unto them, When thou art bidden of any man to a wedding, sit not down in the highest room; lest a more honourable man than thou be bidden of him; and he that bade thee and him come and say to thee, Give this man place; and thou begin with shame to take the lowest room. . . . For whosoever exalteth himself shall be abased; and he that humbleth himself shall be exalted."

The Lesson-Sermon includes also the statement from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Paul and John had a clear apprehension that, as mortal man achieves no worldly honors except by sacrifice, so he must gain heavenly riches by forsaking all worldliness."

News From Point Loma High School

Friday the 13th will "lay" Point Loma's budget balancing jinx by way of an all school show. "Hi-Jinx" proposes to tease the school funny bone with such acts as "Pinch Me Blue", takeoff on Eddie Cantor's latest hit. Margaret Johnson wrote the script which the Girl's League will play. The Loman quartette go western in the old manner with big hats and chaps. Captain Kidd and his men "walk the plank", with Camp Fire Girls as the men.

The East is West idea literally is demonstrated by May Sakamoto, Japanese girl taking the leading role in the Girl's Athletic Oriental show

Point Loma's Hi-Jinx is an hilarious, all-school show to be given at eight, Friday evening and at one-fifteen Thursday afternoon. Most departments and organizations of the school contributed acts to the show. Individual acts, and curtain skits are clever. It is hoped the Hi-Jinx will wipe out the athletic deficit.

Mack Graham and Joan Wilson, student body officers, are to bring the show into shape under the expert direction of W. E. Shepherd, drama coach at Point Loma.

The public is invited to share in the fun on Thursday afternoon and Friday evening.

Jack Schaefer is the new bugler for flag raising ceremonies at Point Loma.

Test grades on Combat Principles are as follows: Charles Allen, Irving Ingraham, Bill Melson, Wilton Stewart, John Twigg, Lloyd Williams, Richard Atwood, Lloyd Leech, Henry Linscott, and Bob Slater, all 100 percent. Those who received 90 percent or above are: Richard Shutes, 93; Fred Hage, 96; Jesse Macbeth, 97; Bob Rockwell, 96; Otto Lehman, 97; Eugene Lyman, 98; Harry Shutes, 95; Gordon Milner, 99; Paul Watson, 95; Paul Winn, 90; and Ted Hacker, 94.

Maneuvers were held a short time ago with the U. S. Marines demonstrating the trench mortar, the 37 mm. gun and the machine gun in action.

The new purple campaign bars worn by R. O. T. C. Cadets are for going to maneuvers steady for one year.

The campaign for the Point Loma high school Annual has begun. Starting Wednesday, March 5 and continuing for two weeks, the Annual salesmen will do their best to sell over 600 subscriptions.

This year's staff consists of Lily Bell Couts, editor; Caryne Schneider, associate editor; Mack Graham, business manager; Gaylord Parkinson, sales manager; and Marjorie Linthicum, art editor.

The art motif of this year's book will be scenes from the back-country of San Diego, carried out in three colored blocks. An extra division page has been added, as well as more photographs, all of which contribute to the attractiveness of the Annual. Two of the features are the Senior Roll Call, and a Senior Calendar.

Warren-Walker School

The boys and girls that are singing tonight over KFSD in the musical contest are Jean Pope, Peter Pinney, Billy Russell, Stewart Fox, Gwendolyn Harvey, Howard Harvey, Ruth Doggett, Shefrah Rozenstain and Paul Few. They will sing at the Russ auditorium in the evening program between nine and nine thirty.

Miss Price's group of children, interested in gardening, are planting daisies and poppies in our school yard parking way.

The boarding pupils are making friends with a mocking bird at Mrs. Walker's home. The bird comes for crumbs put out for him each day, but flies away when spoken to.

Bobbie Achenback has joined the swimming class.

Mrs. J. N. Hatch, 4481 Brighton avenue, who was a librarian for many years, presented the school with some interesting material on birds which she had collected. She is a great lover of birds and has been an organizer of Audubon societies in different localities in which she lived and is continuing her interesting study by banding birds. We appreciated her kind interest and hope she will be able to visit school soon.

GOODWILL SHOWS INCREASE OVER FEBRUARY 1935

Rev. Myron Insko, of Ocean Beach superintendent of the San Diego County Goodwill Industries, reports a decline in the work of his organization for the month just concluded, though not unexpected for it has been the case each year following the holidays. The payroll, however, was $200 in excess of that for February 1935. The number of workers daily employed, on the average, was 42, a drop of eight from December. They put in 7959 hours of labor during the month. The total number of different persons given "Not Charity but a Chance" during the month was 142.

Mr. Insko and the business manager, Olin W. Gillespie, have been exceedingly busy during the month installing an exhibit at the 1936 Exposition and also equipping and stocking a new store at east San Diego, which will afford an opportunity to residents of that section to secure thoroughly cleansed and renovated merchandise at very low prices, without having to go down to the central store at Fifth avenue and J street.

THE THEOSOPHICAL SOCIETY: POINT LOMA

Abbott Clark and C. J. Ryan, M. A. will speak on "Brahmanism" at Theosophical headquarters, Point Loma, Sunday, March 15, 3 o'clock, making the third of the series of lectures on "Theosophy, the Mother of Religions." They will sketch the history of Brahmanism, giving also an outline of the different schools of Brahmanical thought, with special attention to the Bhagavad-gita.

When I told her what I had learned, which, except that my cousin was safe, was little enough—

"We must make for Yorick," she said. "Pharaoh's stranded, and that will give me a chance—with my brother, I mean. If Valentine's bored enough, I may be able to get him to go away. If I offer him the Carlotta, he may see the point of a month at Juan-les-Pins. Besides, if we want your cousin, Yorick is where he will be. He's certain to be watching the castle—it's all he can do. He probably visits Plumage, as you did today. But he knows that when we return, it will be to Yorick itself."

"Very good," said I. "I take it we drive to the door."

"Oh, yes. It's safe enough now."

"You think you'll get Valentine off by an early train?"

"He keeps late hours. If I let him have the Carlotta, I might get him off tonight. He's a creature of impulse, you know. Paint the toy bright enough, and he'll want it at once. My God, John, I've got to do it. He simply must be gone before Pharaoh comes back."

At length—

"Why not go to Pommers?" I said. "And use your original plan? We've only to find my cousin, and that should be easy enough. Let Pharaoh go back to Yorick. And then one night we'll cross the moat by the foot-bridge and do him in."

"I'm afraid to wait, my darling. If Pharaoh gets his foot in again, I think he'll play the card in his sleeve. He doesn't want to play it, but after tonight he'll feel that the luck's against him—and out it'll come. And the card that he's got in his sleeve is putting my brother wise." She drew in her breath. "Once Valentine knows of the gold, it's no good killing Pharaoh, for three weeks later another will reign in his stead. My brother will talk right and left. What's almost worse, he'll never leave me alone, as long as there's 20 pounds left. So you see, for that reason alone, Valentine must be gone before Pharaoh comes back."

The miles streamed by in silence, and I think it was just past midnight when I switched the Rolls off the road and into the entrance-drive.

As our headlights illuminated the gateway, I saw that the curtains were gone and the gates were shut, but a wicket in one of the leaves was open wide, and a servant was standing beside it, shading his eyes. He had, of course, seen our lights from the porter's lodge and had opened for 'Captain Faning,' as no doubt he had done before. As I brought the Rolls up to the wicket, I saw him start. Then he opened the door for his mistress and bowed to the ground.

"Come, John," said Helena quietly. She turned to the man. "Shut the wicket, Hubert, and wait in the lodge. The car will stay there."

In a flash she was in the courtyard, with Sabre and me behind.

The doors were open, and Helena sped up the staircase which led to the principal rooms. In the hall the lights were burning, but from first to last I saw no other servants, and we afterwards learned that the Count, at Pharaoh's suggestion, had sent them to bed every evening at half-past ten.

Helena's ear was fast to the library door. After a moment she passed to the dining-room. There for a moment she listened. Then her hand went out to the handle and softly opened the door.

A girl was standing on the table, regarding herself in the huge Italian mirror that hung on the wall. Her dress did not become her—it was so much finer than she. The scene was too coarse to be comic. Some girl from the streets of Lass was trying on Helena's clothes.

Champagne was on the table and on the floor. The Count was lying, flat on his back. His condition was most apparent. To say he was drunk conveys nothing. Valentine, Count of Yorick, was down and out.

The girl had seen us in the mirror. Her hands clapped fast to her cheeks, she was staring at Helena's reflection with starting eyes. To confirm the mirror's report, she shot us one glance of horror; then she crumpled and sank to the table, dragging the dress about her and shrinking as though from some vision which was but waiting to give her the judgment that she deserved.

Helena went to her quickly and touched her arm.

"Don't be afraid," she said quietly. "If you do as I tell you, I'll see that you come to no harm."

She turned to me, to speak English.

"Can you get him on to the terrace and bring him round?"

"I'll try," said I. "But I haven't a lot of hope."

With that, I picked up the Count and carried him out.

But the fellow was too far gone. He would come to his senses in time, but nothing that I could do would hale them back.

As I sat back on my heels—

"No good?" said Helena quietly.

"Hopeless," said I. "He's all in. He may come round by midday, but he won't be fit to talk to for 24 hours."

As the words left my mouth, the castle clock told us the time.

A quarter past twelve.

"We must get him away," said Helena. "Now, at once. There's a train that leaves Lass for Innsbruck at one o'clock. We can't put him aboard at Lass—he's too well known, but I guess the train stops at Gola—that's ten miles on. The girl will have to go with him and see that he comes to no harm."

Although I could see that it was drastic, I had then no idea how monstrous was the action which she proposed. Her brother was her liege lord; when he succeeded her father, she was the first of his vassals to go on her knees, to put her hands between his, to swear to honor his person and ever maintain his freedom and all his rights. And this was no matter of form. For better or worse, for more than five hundred years the body of the Count had been sacred in the eyes of his house.

Times might change, but not Yorick. Its motto held.

On that handsome July night Helena snapped the tradition and broke her oath. Not a servant would have dared help her.

After perhaps five minutes our plans were laid.

Whilst Helena spoke with Mona, the girl from Lass, I scrawled a note to Pharaoh, and boldly signed it "V. Y."

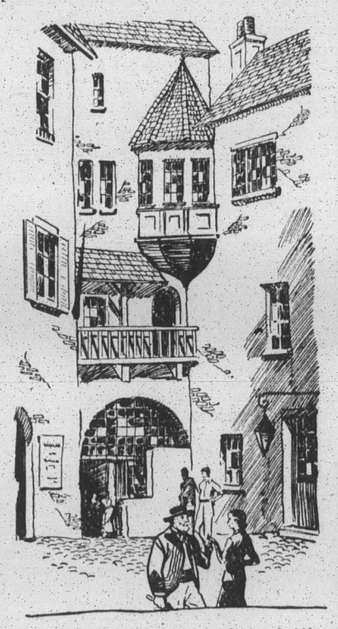

Dear Faning:

Sorry, but I'm fed up. I've had enough of Yorick and I'm going tonight. I don't know where, but I'll probably get a train. See you again some day. . . .

I think it looked the note of a drunken man.

As I laid down my pencil—

"That'll do very well," said Helena. "He never writes, so nobody knows his hand. Leave it there on the blotting-pad. And now we must go. Mona's a broken reed, but it can't be helped. I'm not afraid of her talking—she's far too scared for that. But I am afraid of her bolting the moment she gets the chance."

As the Porter Stepped Out of His Lodge.

A moment later our strange procession took shape.

Helena led the way and I brought up the rear, with the Count on my back, while Mona minced between us, bearing her shoes in her hand.

Six paces away from the gates, I laid my burden down.

"Is your back all right?" breathed Helena.

"Yes, thank you, my sweet."

At once she turned to Mona, who was drooping beside the wall.

"If you cross that bridge, the porter will see you, and you will be chased and caught. In a few minutes' time, however, the porter will leave his lodge. You'll know when he's gone, because then the wicket will open. The moment the wicket opens, cross the bridge. When you're over the bridge, you can put on your shoes. Then run down the drive until you come to the woods. Wait there at the edge of the meadows, and the car will be down in five minutes to pick you up."

"It is understood, my lady."

"You will wait without fail, on the right-hand side of the road."

"Without fail, my lady. My lady will not be long."

"Five minutes," I said. "Perhaps I shall come before. But until the wicket opens, you must not move."

"Very good, my lady."

With many misgivings we left her and hastened the way we had come. This time, however, we left the postern ajar.

We had found her bedroom lighted and left it so—an open wardrobe declared the rape of the frock; and now we only waited to set wide open the doors of the principal rooms. Then we went down to the courtyard—up to the last of the jumps.

As the porter stepped out of his lodge—

"Why didn't you tell me," said Helena, "that his lordship was gone?"

The fellow looked scared.

"I—I didn't know, my lady. I—I thought his lordship was here."

"He went this evening. He says so. He's left a note."

The porter put a hand to his head.

"No one has gone out, my lady, since half-past nine. And at half-past nine, my lady, I know that his lordship was here."

There was a startled silence. Then—

"Fetch the night-watchman," said Helena.

The man ran into the courtyard and disappeared.

In a flash the wicket was open and I was outside.

As I heaved him into the car, I saw a bedraggled figure hurrying on to the bridge. I laid the Count flat on the floor-boards and put his coat over his face. Then I took my seat at the wheel and started to turn the car round. . . .

Helena was speaking.

"Rouse the other watchmen and the warden as well. The castle is to be searched. Unless he left by a postern, his lordship must still be here. Tell the warden that I have news for his lordship which will not wait, that I've gone to Lass to catch him in case he has gone."

"Your ladyship will be returning?"

"Within the hour."

I had the car well in the shadows and Helena's door was open before she left the wicket to take her seat. And she was so quick that, though the porter made to escort her, I was able to have the car moving before he was out of the light.

As I whipped over the drawbridge, I heard her sigh with relief.

"And now for Mona," she said.

The time was now half past twelve, which shows that much may be done in a quarter of an hour. Indeed, I would not have believed it if the clock had not been chiming as we passed over the bridge.

As we left the meadows, I set a foot on the brake and switched out my lights.

For a moment we sat in silence. Then—

"Mona," cried Helena. "Mona."

The girl did not answer, and after a frantic moment I flung myself out of the car.

"Mona," I cried, "where are you?"

A figure rose out of the night.

"She's hopped it, sir," said Barley. "Cut through the woods. But I'm thankful to see you, sir. And that's the truth."

It was twenty minutes later, on the skirts of Annabel village, that Barley stood by the Rolls and told us his tale.

We dared not return to the castle before ten minutes past one, for Lass was 12 miles from Yorick and not even the Rolls could have done the double journey in less than 35 minutes, no matter how much she was pushed. We had, therefore, ten minutes to spare—much against our will, for that Pharaoh was racing for Yorick we had not a shadow of doubt. Still, to be uneasy was foolish; that day I had done the journey as Pharaoh was doing it now. If Pharaoh had the luck of the devil, we might expect to see him at half-past one; but I would have laid a fortune that he would not arrive before six.

So, as we had time to spare, Barley stood by the Rolls and told us his tale.

"A wire come on Monday, sir, a little later than usual, about ten o'clock. 'Return at once,' it said and it bore your name. Well, we left as sharp as we could—for Villach, of course; but when we gets out at Villach, there ain't no car to meet us, let alone no Rolls. 'That's queer,' says Mr. Bohun. 'I don't understand it,' he says. 'If Mr. Spencer could wire, he could send a car. It may be all right, but we'd better go careful, Barley, from this time on.' Well, we 'ired a car at Villach, and stopped four miles from the farm. Then we enters the woods on foot. It was just about half-past four when we sights the house. Everything looks as usual—sleepy an' peaceful, you know, sir, an' no one about. But Mr. Bohun's uneasy. 'Mustn't rush in,' he says. 'You stay an' watch out,' he says, 'while I go round to the back.' He hadn't hardly spoken before Rush comes out on the apron, as bold as brass.

"I give you my word, sir, that shook us. We made sure they'd got you all right. But of course we couldn't do nothing until it was dark. Then we crept in and 'ad a close-up." He drew in his breath. "Those two—Rush and Bugle—they're simple, that's what they are. They're like a turn on the 'alls. You could walk right in between them, before they'd know you were there. For 'alf an hour that evening we listened to what they said, and of course we very soon knew that Pharaoh'd got his foot in the castle and you was away. Then Mr. Bohun goes for the farmer's wife, but she knows nothing at all, except that his lordship's back and given special orders that Bugle and Rush is to have your rooms at the farm.

"Well, we had to have quarters somewhere, so Mr. Bohun comes here. 'The last place they'll look,' he says, 'and the best I know.' Then we starts in watchin' the castle and visitin' Plumage at night. And that was all we could do, for to look for you was hopeless—we didn't know where to begin. But we knew where Pharaoh was, and we made up our minds to get him, for once he was out of the way, all roads were clear."

Barley closed his eyes and pushed back his hat.

Blackbird Composer

Man's power of creating music is challenged, declares Prof. Eduard Engel, of Potsdam, by only one other living creature in the world—the blackbird. This bold assertion may arouse those who believe the canary or nightingale to be supreme amongst bird musicians. But, whereas these birds pour forth their hereditary songs without blemish, the blackbird, the professor affirms, creates music of its own, improvising "strophes" on the spot. A tireless inventor of new harmony, the bird also has the true, artist's hatred of repetition. When inspired, it sings from 300 to 500 different melodies in a single day.—Tit-Bits Magazine.

Silk Prints Go Formal or Informal

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

AS TO "class distinction" the new silk prints declare it at a glance. If a print is informal, you know it without being told. The same applies to prints that are formal, there is no mistaking them. The character of their patternings and their colorings is that clearly defined in the spring crop of silk prints there is scarcely a doubt as to their identity as either formal or informal.

Wherefore, choice of a new silk print, and there is no sidestepping of prints if you would be in fashion, depends entirely as to whether you are looking for a print to wear when you go shopping or for sports or during your round of daytime social activities or whether you are seeking a print to tune in with glamorous nights and festive occasions. You can see by the picture that there is no chance of confusing the two.

As to prints for informal daytime wear, they are going as far as they dare in the way of amusing as well as unique design. For instance, note the novel "around the clock" patterning of the print that fashions the dress to the left in the picture. It's great fun to decipher the Roman numerals printed in white. If you look closer you will discover more numbers, one's and two's and three's and so on scattered over the background. A handsome black sheer pebbled silk crepe is this with its clock motif printed in red and in white. A red lacquered bar clasps at the throat, giving a soft fullness to the bodice. A matching clasp holds the black patent leather belt. The felt hat with its wide rolled brim points the way to stylish trends in the millinery realm.

Entertaining and smile-producing as are the new time-of-the-day clock prints, they are no more so than are the silks that are patterned with bars of music. You can actually read the notes and recognize some of the "airs." Then there are the new vegetable prints, yes "vegetable" prints. No need rubbing your eyes, they did not deceive you. Carrots and peas and so on, and they are as designful and pretty as florals. Fruits, too, you will be seeing in print.

A comely suit to start the spring season is shown to the right in the picture. This three-piece suit is tailored of black silk crepon printed in white comet design. It features a short jacket and a slender skirt that has a back pleated panel, thus giving emphasis to back fullness such as leading designers are advocating in their newer creations. It is worn with a white sheer silk blouse having a lace trim.

That formal evening prints should so strikingly contrast informal daytime prints adds greatly to the zest of the printed mode. Georgeous, exotic, beguiling, lovely beyond words are the prints that go about to dance parties and dinner affairs and other "after six" social events. The tendency is toward life-size florals for the most part widely spaced, although some of the most beautiful prints pattern the entire surface with a labyrinth of flowers that reflect a very ecstasy of colorings, sometimes in pastels but just as often in radiant natural flower colorings. The print used for the exquisite formal gown pictured, patterns shaded satin tulips in vivid colorings against the chalky surface of satin-backed white silk crepe.

HAND QUILTED

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

The latest thing in needlecraft going the rounds in the realm of costume designing is hand quilting. The stunning hip-length jacket pictured is of heavy black celanese satin. The smart hand-quilted design on the sleeves and bordering the front is raised by being stuffed with black wool, after the manner of Trapunto quilting. It was in the Renaissance period that Trapunto quilting came into existence. It is accomplished by drawing the design in double lines, and after quilting it, the space between these lines is stuffed with small shreds of wool. In the jacket pictured both the cut and the design of the hand-quilting carry out the militaristic motif. The fashion-wise miss will wear this jacket open with the tiny military collar turned up.

Crocheted Gloves

The newest version of hand-crocheted gloves—so smart, this winter—is in an interesting stitch that looks like weaving. The backs of the gloves are yellow and the palm brown, forerunners of the combination gloves featuring two colors forecast for spring. They were designed especially for southern wear, but there's no law against wearing them right now!

WELCOME REVIVAL OF HAND-QUILTING

Welcome news to women who delight in fine needlecraft is the revival of fine hand-quilting. The flair for this rare handicraft has become so pronounced and so general, exhibits of finest examples of this lovely needlework are being held in many of the larger cities.

The work shown surpasses anything ever before attempted in this country. Not only are quilted things for home decorative purposes displayed but the showings include exquisite examples of hand-quilted negligees, bed-jackets, evening cloaks and capes; also modish jackets that are stunning worn with cloth or crepe afternoon frocks or with blouse and skirt to complete the three-piece costume.

These are made of lustrous celanese satins, crepes and soft glowing taffetas. The color combinations are notable. They range from the soft pastels to the deep browns and navies and other smart suit colors. An evening cape of soft creamy velvet with an unusual design of snowflakes and icicles is outstanding.

Colors Return in Milady's Shoes With Varied Choice

Shoes as brilliant as the peacock's tail will deck the nation's feminine toes this Easter.

Early spring styles displayed by manufacturers feature pastel tints rivaling the rainbow.

"Bright colors—lavenders, yellows, greens, blues, pinks—will strike the dominant note this season," said one leading stylist, "and previously untried combinations will have a new vogue."

The choice will range from a red, white and blue trimmed model for the patriotic to one rivaling Biblical Joseph's coat of many colors in variety.

Blouses Feminize Suits

Soft blouses, frilly scarfs and other extremely feminine-looking accessories are important with the new strictly tailored suits. If you have chosen a severe suit of men's wear flannel or worsted, do dress it up with a ruffled blouse, chiffon scarf and gay boutonniere of loose, feathery flowers.

Students Offered Course in the Art of Whistling

In the old horse-and-buggy days whistling was a natural art, acquired without effort. You either whistled or didn't and it was much better ordinarily if you did not, at least for your friends, relates a writer in the Miami Herald.

But things change and now we learn that the high school in Bangs, Texas, has made whistling a regular course in its curriculum. There is nothing like this habit to maintain spirits before graduation, says the Bangs professor. It may be just as badly needed after graduation, too.

That ancient belief about whistling girls coming to bad end may have been repealed in Texas, but our advice to the graduates is not to carry their knowledge into offices and factories when seeking and after getting a job. This ability will not help them. It is more apt to land them on their ears in the alley. Silence, please!

REACHING By GLUYAS WILLIAMS

OLD WIVES' TALE

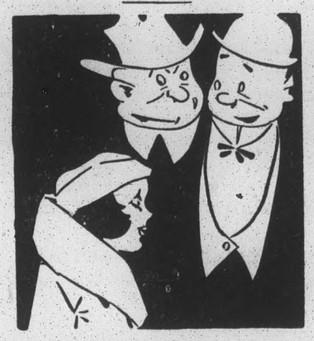

A backwoods mountaineer one day found a mirror which a tourist had lost.

"Well, if it ain't my old dad," he said, as he looked in the mirror. "I never knowed he had his pitcher took."

He took the mirror home and stole into the attic to hide it. But his actions didn't escape his suspicious wife. That night while he slept she slipped up to the attic and found the mirror.

"Hum-um," she said, looking into it, "so that's the old hag he's been chasin'."—Cherokee (Kan.) Sentinel.

LATEST SHADES

"She has a good face."

"The best the market affords."

But Love Conquers All

For a lad who had recently got himself engaged to a beautiful and attractive young woman, his face was radiating a surprisingly small amount of rapture.

"I've got a five-thousand-a-year girl," he confided gloomily.

"Well, then," said his friend, heartily, "you're fixed for life."

"No, no, you misunderstand, the upkeep."—Stray Stories Magazine.

More Polite Politics

"How is politics in Crimson Gulch?"

"All right," said Bronco Bob. "We're getting rid of the idea that when a man runs for office the boys get out with so many six shooters that the only thing for him to do is to keep on running."

Epitaphorisms

"Do you think we should speak ill of those who have passed from this life?"

"No," said Miss Cayenne. "But I can't see the wisdom of trying to assert tombstone epitaphs as political doctrine."

The Answer

Teacher—Are you the oldest in your family?

Nellie—No, both father and mother are older than I am.

Room for Something

Big Brother—Ouch! This liniment makes my arm smart.

Little Sister—Better try some of it on your head.

IT'S BEING DONE

"Silence is golden, you know."

"Well, I don't know about silence being golden, but I've heard of people making money out of a still."

Scientific

Mother—But why don't you like school, Mary?

Mary—Oh, it isn't the school. It's the principle of the thing.

Just a Happy Family

"So you are building a new house, eh? How are you getting along with it?"

"Fine. I've got the roof and the mortgage on it, and I expect to have the furnace and the sheriff in before fall."—Wall Street Journal.

Necessity

Green—You must be keen on the talkies, old boy, to go twice a week.

Howarth—It's not that exactly. You see, if I don't go regularly I can't understand what my children are saying

Spreading the Oil

Customer—To what do you owe your extraordinary success as a house-to-house salesman?

Salesman—To the first five words I utter when a woman opens the door—"Miss, is your mother in?"

Says the Farmer

Tractor Salesman—With this tractor you can do twice as much work.

Farmer (with a look of disgust)—I do plenty of work now. What the heck do I want with a thing that makes me do twice as much?

EQUIPPED TO PARE

Andrew Newman of Dalystown Irish Free State, dug up a potato that weighed two and three-quarter pounds. On examining the "spud" and trying to cut it he found something hard inside. When he cut the potato he found a pocket knife which he had lost two years before.

Still Coughing?

Watch Your Kidneys!

Be Sure They Properly Cleanse the Blood

YOUR kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as nature intended—fail to remove impurities that poison the system when retained.

Then you may suffer nagging backache, dizziness, scanty or too frequent urination, getting up at night, puffiness under the eyes; feel nervous, miserable—all upset.

Don't delay? Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are especially for poorly functioning kidneys. They are recommended by grateful users the country over. Get them from any druggist.

In the crucial months before baby arrives it is vitally important that the body be rid of waste matter. Your intestines must function—regularly, completely without griping.

Why Physicians Recommend Milnesia Wafers

These mint-flavored, candy-like wafers are pure milk of magnesia in solid form—much pleasanter to take than liquid. Each wafer is approximately equal to a full adult dose of liquid milk of magnesia. Chewed thoroughly, then swallowed, they correct acidity in the mouth and throughout the digestive system, and insure regular, complete eltmination without pain or effort. Milnesia Wafers come in bottles of 20 and 48, at 35c and 60c respectively, and in convenient tins for your handbag containing 12 at 20c. Each wafer is approximately one adult dose of milk of magnesia. All good drug stores sell and recommend them.

. but
It will serve you better if you open a
Monthly Charge Account
It's convenient when you're in San Diego . . . it has real advantages when you may telephone for the things you want without cost, and just say "charge it".
Walker's park your car and return it to the Store for 15c.
It takes only 3 minutes to open an account at Walkers.
